Enea introduces this June 2012 www.eneadesign.com its new corporate website, an agile, easy to navigate and with a new contemporary design portal. By registering you will access to useful and interesting content to develop your job.

Enea starts the new year with strength, shown by various changes in the corporate communication which seeks to get closer, even more, to all their audiences to know their opinions and interests.

Enea launches its new corporate website www.eneadesign.com. An space where you will find all their products, technical data sheets, certificates, projects, information and media company, but the most important development is that it is a more intuitive website than the before one and which to browse and search information will be easy, quick and fast.

The new website will incorporate different spaces such as the press area, the blog and newsletter as well as an easier product finder. But it will also have a restricted area in which, after registration, it will be possible to access to various documents such as:

- Company and product certificates
- High resolution pictures
- Technical data, environmental and maintenance of products
- Catalogues
- 2D and 3D files
- Information materials
- Information projects
- Trade shows, events or promotional activities done by Enea
- And information for the press

Enea invites you to browse to the new ENEA website and do not forget to register!
